75 Pupils Join Kiwanis Tour Of Air Base

Seventy-five boys and girls from the Salem Junior High ninth grade science classes toured the 79th Fighter Group USAF Base, north of Youngstown, on Saturday.

The trip, sponsored by the Salem Kiwanis Club in conjunction with National Kiwanis Kids Day, was arranged by Norman Houser, chairman of the club's boys and girls committee, and Earle Smith, principal of the Junior High School.

The 15-car caravan from Salem was met Saturday morning at the air base by public relations officer, Capt. James H. Finney.

Taking charge of the actual tour was Sgt. James F. Gilbert who showed the group a C-119, "Flying Box Car"; a T-33, two-seated "Star"; they watched a B-25 World War II-type Mitchell bomber taking off; and were shown the fire and crash rescue truck equipment.

Of particular interest was a demonstration by 1st Lt. Glenn J. Langford of Waco, Texas, who ex-

Warsaw Confab In Third Week

New Lease on Life May Be In Sight

WARSAW (AP) —Hopes soared today that statements from Washington and Peking had given a new lease on life to the Formosa talks and eased war threats.

The Warsaw talks between U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam and Chinese Communist envoy Wang Ping-nan entered their third week today. The envoys hold their fifth meeting Tuesday.

Among developments which diplomats considered conciliatory was the declaration by Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai Sunday that the Red Chinese "do not give up their efforts to find a solution to the disputes between China and the United States through peaceful negotiations."

That was what the diplomats had left after they had stripped away much anti-American verbiage from Chou's Peking broadcast. Among other statements, he said Communist China would lead the United States to "final and complete disaster if the United States insists on provoking war."

Announcement Postponed

In Washington an announcement on the details of the closed-door talks was postponed beyond the date such an announcement had been expected. This was interpreted as meaning that the highest quarters expected new developments.

It had been reported that if Washington became convinced the talks were fruitless the United

Hurricane Damage High in Carolinas

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Up and down the coast stand houses with roofs ripped open. Battered trees gleam nakedly against the sky, their shorn limbs piled up on streets and roads. Telephone poles sag crazily.

On the miles of beaches, the surf washes over tens of thousands of conch shells, more souvenir of the weekend's Hurricane Helene.

Damage from the hurricane is estimated in the millions of dollars. Communications are still out in many areas. But there was no loss of life.

Residents, recalling hurricanes of 1954-55, were prepared when Helene swirled past the Carolinas and the Virginia Capes, well off shore, with winds up to 140 miles an hour.

A civil defense spokesman said the people "gave us no argument" when asked to evacuate.

There were scattered personal injuries. The Red Cross said 4,950 persons were cared for at 65 shelters.

Knocked Down Pier
Spinning shoreward Saturday morning from the southeast, Helene passed up most of South Carolina's lush resort area. She knocked down a fishing pier at Ocean Drive Beach, S. C., and damaged two more piers in Cherry Grove Beach.

Moving toward the jutting North Carolina coastline, she smashed a 30-foot pier at Ocean Isle Beach, N. C., damaged most of the houses at Holden Beach and sent high water over the protective sand dunes at Long Beach, damaging roads. This was in the forenoon.

She hit hardest at Southport, tucked inside the elbow of the Cape Fear, and Wilmington, 30 miles north. She never came inland, staying about 35 miles offshore. All communications were knocked out at Southport and the town was in need of water until auxiliary pumps were brought in.

"The only thing that saved us," said some Southport citizens, "was that the winds and the tide

DeGaulle Constitution Passed by 4-1 Margin

Chiang Threatens To Bomb Mainland

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — President Chiang Kai-shek said today his Nationalist air force will bomb the Communist guns ringing Quemoy when and if the "crucial moment arises."

He added he felt the United States would back him if that time came.

He said this moment would come when the lives of the 130,000 troops and civilians on the outpost fortress are in danger either from the effects of the Communist artillery blockade or other military action.

"When the crucial moment arises I feel the United States will not fall back on its promises to help," he stated. "But the crucial moment has not yet arisen."

"But we will act on our own regardless of the U.S. attitude" when it comes a question of life and death," he said.

Under No Obligations
He emphasized Nationalist China is under no obligations to the United States that would prevent it from taking action it feels necessary for its own defense.

Chiang spoke at his first open news conference since Feb. 7, 1955.

Alert and smiling, he also made these points:

1. Nationalist China is following a policy of restraint in the face of heavy losses by Quemoy's civilians and soldiers.

2. It might agree to a United Nations debate on the Formosa crisis under certain conditions.

3. The Red artillery blockade has been rendered temporarily ineffective by air drops and supply efforts.

4. There will never be any need for U.S. ground troops to help defend Quemoy.

Chiang spoke at the Chinese Reds carried their artillery assaults against the Quemoy islands into the 38th day with a relatively light shelling.

By Nationalist Defense Ministry count, 1,009 shells were fired on the islands up to midday today, and 4,352 Sunday.

Dropped Supplies
Nationalist cargo planes dropped supplies on little Tatan Island for the first time and on Quemoy for the sixth straight night, correspondents reported Sunday night. Another Nationalist convoy shoved supplies to the islands by ship despite Red barrages.

Although Chiang said the Red blockade was now ineffective, correspondents on Quemoy said the 5,700 civilians on neighboring Little Quemoy were being to run short of food and medicines. Two-thirds of their homes were reported destroyed.

The Nationalists claimed their Quemoy artillery sank 22 small Communist Chinese supply boats and damaged three others in an action Sunday.

Spelled Out Circumstances
Earlier, Rear Adm. Liu Hoh-tu, chief Nationalist military spokesman, spelled out the circumstances under which Chiang's air force would bomb Red gun positions on the mainland.

These were: If the Reds cut off food supplies to the offshore islands to the point where the people and the defenders were facing famine, and if ammunition supplies were cut to the point where the garrison did not have enough reserves to cope with an invasion.

Chiang's last open news conference in 1955 was on the eve of Nationalist China's withdrawal

Executive Power Increased For Fifth Republic

84.9 Per Cent Of Registered Voters Turned Out

PARIS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle has won his fight. Returns from the most sweeping referendum in French history today gave him a resounding personal triumph and a strong constitution for a new Fifth Republic.

The Fifth Republic will be proclaimed in the official journal next Sunday. And France will enter into a new, more powerful system of government so daring that many Frenchmen gasped at the conception while they voted their approval by a landslide Sunday.

Voters of continental France approved the new constitution by a margin of almost 4-1.

Complete official tabulations in France showed 17,666,828 "yes" votes and 4,624,475 "no" votes. There was a record turnout of 84.9 per cent of France's registered voters. Counting all those who sent to the polls, including some who cast blank ballots, the new constitution was approved by 78.5 per cent.

Backed Constitution
With one exception—French Guinea in West Africa—the overseas lands of the erstwhile French empire also backed the constitution to the hilt. This set them up with France on the world political stage as a "French community," a sort of global confederation, with commonwealth status and even independence waiting in the wings.

Even the "no" vote of independence-minded Guinea made little impression in the general massive outpouring of approval that exceeded even the most optimistic estimates.

The landslide raised the prospect that De Gaulle, the 67-year-old World War II hero restored to leadership in a rightist uprising last May, can almost write his own ticket to cure the sicknesses of this long ailing country. Chief of these is the four-year-old Algerian rebellion.

Will Become President
De Gaulle probably will become president, with powers that no French chief of state has enjoyed since Emperor Napoleon III was overthrown in 1870.

In the interval, France has deliberately maintained a strong legislature and a weak executive.

De Gaulle's dramatic victory was the worst electoral black eye the Communists have suffered in postwar France. The Communists formed the largest bloc campaigning against De Gaulle's constitution. They said it would open the way to dictatorship.

Gaullist leaders hailed the results as a decisive blow at the Reds, who have hamstrung French politics with disruptive tactics and the biggest single vote bloc—148 deputies—in the 596-seat National Assembly.

Approval of the constitution automatically rejects the old Assembly. De Gaulle now has four months of near-dictatorial powers in which he will write a new election law to set a new Assembly.

Elections probably will come in late November or early December.

TOKYO (AP) — Relief workers recovered the bodies of 200 more victims of Typhoon Ida today from the mud and debris of ravaged Izu Peninsula 70 miles southwest of Tokyo.

This brought the number of known dead from the weekend storm reported by the national police to 540.

Police said 976 persons are still missing.

DIES OF INJURIES
CINCINNATI (AP) — Richard Guiley 41 of Cincinnati died in Christ Hospital today of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Flemingsburg Ky. Guiley's brother Eugene was killed instantly in the Sept. 7 collision between their automobile and an oil truck.

GM Deadline Moved Back

Reuther Resumes Settlement Talks

DETROIT (AP)—Walter Reuther resumes his efforts today to get a quick contract settlement with Chrysler Corp. as a followup to the back-to-work order he issued to wildcat strikers at Chrysler and General Motors Sunday.

Reuther moved back a strike deadline against GM from Tuesday to Thursday in order to get thousands of premature strikers at GM plants back on the job.

"We have made it clear that these people who thought they were helpful really are hurting us," Reuther said. "We are confident they will see the wisdom of all GM workers going back to work so we can negotiate in a more peaceful climate."

Reuther's order to the 250,000 UAW members at GM came after a week in which the company reported its attempt to get full speed ahead on production of 1959 models was hampered by the strikes and some resultant plant shutdowns. GM on Saturday listed 45,000 idle at 20 plants across the nation.

Was Made Public
The UAW order was made public within minutes after Reuther went into an unusual Sunday morning bargaining session with GM, while another UAW team of negotiators met at the same hour with Chrysler.

The union got speedy agreement from GM that further bargaining talks be delayed until Tuesday while the UAW went about the business of getting the strikers back to work.

Louis G. Seaton, GM vice president, said: "It is a very good thing that the union is going to make an effort to cut off the hit-and-run tactics which have cost thousands of GM workers millions of dollars in wages."

Had No Intention
Seaton told newsmen GM had no intention of sweetening the contract offer it made to the union Sept. 20, three days after Ford and the UAW reached contract agreement after a strike of about seven hours involving 98,000 Ford workers.

"If that settlement was good enough then, it ought to be good enough now and that is why we offered the union a contract almost identical to the one on which they settled with Ford," Seaton said.

The Ford pact carried increases of from 24 to 30 cents an hour during the life of the contract in Ford workers' present average hourly earnings of $6.62. The Ford pact also provided for additional supplemental unemployment benefits for laid-off workers and for severance pay for workers who lost their jobs because of plant relocation.

Chrysler has a similar offer on the table.

Nuclear Test Weapon Detonated In Air
ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) — A nuclear test weapon exploded with shattering impact today over the atom-blasted sands of the Nevada proving ground.

The device, packing half the power of the A-bomb that leveled Hiroshima in World War II, was detonated while hanging from a balloon 1,500 feet in the air.

The explosion outshone the rising sun and sent a heavy shock wave rumbling across the desert. Newsmen clustered on a hill 10 miles away felt the jolt.

Light winds carried the fallout from the mushroom cloud directly toward the observer's post. Forecasters had warned of this.

The test was the second in the current series being conducted by the Atomic Energy Commission. It has been postponed twice.

The devices being tested are small as atom bombs go. Today's was rated at 10 kilotons. The emphasis on smaller devices is seen as an attempt to develop nuclear weapons with a wider range of military uses.

The test site is 90 miles from Las Vegas.

Increased Social Security Benefits Effective In January

Social security benefits are intended to replace in part loss of income brought about by the death, disability, or old-age retirement of the workers. For this reason, they are related to the average earnings of a worker in employment by the social security law.

Obviously, social security benefits are affected by changes in the national economy. Since the last benefit increase was put into effect in 1954, wages have increased by about 12 per cent and prices by 8 per cent. Congress felt that adjustments in the benefit scale were in order and voted an across-the-board increase in the amendments which the President signed into law on Aug. 28, 1958.

These benefits become effective at the beginning of 1959, and will be included in all benefit checks for January which will reach beneficiaries early in February. It is not necessary to visit your social security office to apply for these increases, they will be made automatically.

The benefit increases for retired workers amount to about 7 per cent over the levels provided in the old law, with a minimum increase of $3 in the benefits payable to a retired worker who came on the rolls at or after age 65.

Slightly smaller increases will be shown on the benefit checks of retired women workers who elected to retire at age 62 or at any age thereafter before reaching age 65. Proportionate increases will be made in benefits paid to beneficiaries who are dependents or survivors of retired or deceased workers.

For retired male workers now getting benefit payments, the monthly payments, beginning with the payment for January, will range from $33 to $116, as compared with $30 to $108.50 under the old law.

For women workers now getting retirement benefits the increased checks will range from $26.40 to $116 per month. This slightly lower minimum benefit is due to the fact that some women chose to retire before age 65.

For further information on the new amendments, contact your local social security office, 123 W. Commerce St., Youngstown.

Veterans Guide

By Veterans Administration

Q—Does the VA accept GI insurance premiums in advance? I have some extra money, and if I could pay up my insurance for a year, it would save me a lot of trouble.

A—You certainly may pay GI insurance premiums in advance. You not only save the trouble of making payments each month, but you also save money. Premiums are discounted when paid yearly, semi-annually or quarterly.

Q—I am taking on-the-job training under the Korean GI Bill. Is there any limit on my training wages?

A—There is no limit on how much you may earn. However, when your earnings plus your GI allowance exceed $310 a month, VA is obliged to scale down your training allowance to bring the total within the $310 "ceiling."

Q—I understand there was a recent change in the law which extended the date for a World War

Two veterans to get a GI loan. How much time do I have now?

A—You now have until July 25, 1960, to apply for a GI loan. The law allows up to a year after that date to complete the deal.

Q—My son is eligible for college training under the War Orphans Education program. Would he be permitted to attend school in Canada, under the program?

A—No. Generally, War Orphans schooling in educational institutions outside the United States is prohibited by law.

Bell Co. Workers Honor Arthur Cody

Friends and co-workers gathered at the Elks Home Sept. 24 in honor of Arthur B. Cody, a central office repairman, who is retiring on pension from the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. after 37 years of service. One hundred ten attended the dinner-dance.

Mr. Cody started his career with the Ohio State Telephone Co. in 1920 and continued in the business when Ohio Bell was formed in 1921. The major part of his service was as a toll and local central office equipment repairman.

He served in both world wars, in France in World War I and in the Pacific Theater as a Seabee in World War II.

Among those present besides Mr. and Mrs. Cody was a daughter, Mrs. Mary Sweeney of Fort Mitchell, Ky.; and their four sons, all of Salem, Earl W., Joseph E., Merlin W. and Arthur B. Cody Jr.

The honoree was presented several life member certificates. Raymond Stiver, the local plant chief, presented the 37-year service emblem in the form of a diamond studded tie clasp, and Dale Rhodes, central office foreman, presented gifts from the group to Arthur and Mrs. Cody.

Mr. Cody has purchased a home in Florida and plans to leave shortly to take up residence there.

Charles E. Dern, district plant superintendent, was master of ceremonies. The committee making the arrangements consisted of John Myers, Paul Englert and Dale Rhodes.

Use Insulation to Make Your Home Snug Against Weather

Ideally, a home should be fully insulated when built or remodeled. But there may be parts of your home not insulated, or which need additional insulation. Insulation is a barrier that slows down temperature changes. It slows down heat loss from the inside in winter, of heat from outdoors in summer. That's all it is. Insulation of itself neither heats nor cools. It has no magic properties. And if you install it where there is little likelihood of heat transfer, you're wasting money.

DECIDE FIRST where you need additional insulation; second, what sort of insulation would work best in each spot.

Since warm air rises, most heat loss is through the attic. And in summer this is also the spot in which heat builds up quickly because of the sun's rays beating directly on the roof.

Walls vary in their need for insulation. Those most exposed to the weather need the most protection. Chances are, in winter the north wall is the coldest. In summer, the south wall most needs protection from the sun's rays. Conditions may vary in different areas. The presence of other buildings and of trees should be considered.

Floors in basementless homes should be insulated. So should floors of rooms built out over the top of a porch or attached garage.

When you shop for insulation, you'll find these four basic types available:

FILL INSULATION is sold as bagful of loose material, and is the least expensive type. It is suitable for pouring between joists in an unfinished attic. Used in that fashion, it should be spread from two to four inches deep.

Loose insulation is used, too, to fill between walls of older homes. This requires installation by use of a blower, and professionals only should handle the job. It's no task for the handy man.

Batt, or blanket, insulation is loose insulation packed between sheets of specially treated paper. Batts are short strips, blankets are the same material made in rolls up to 100 feet in length.

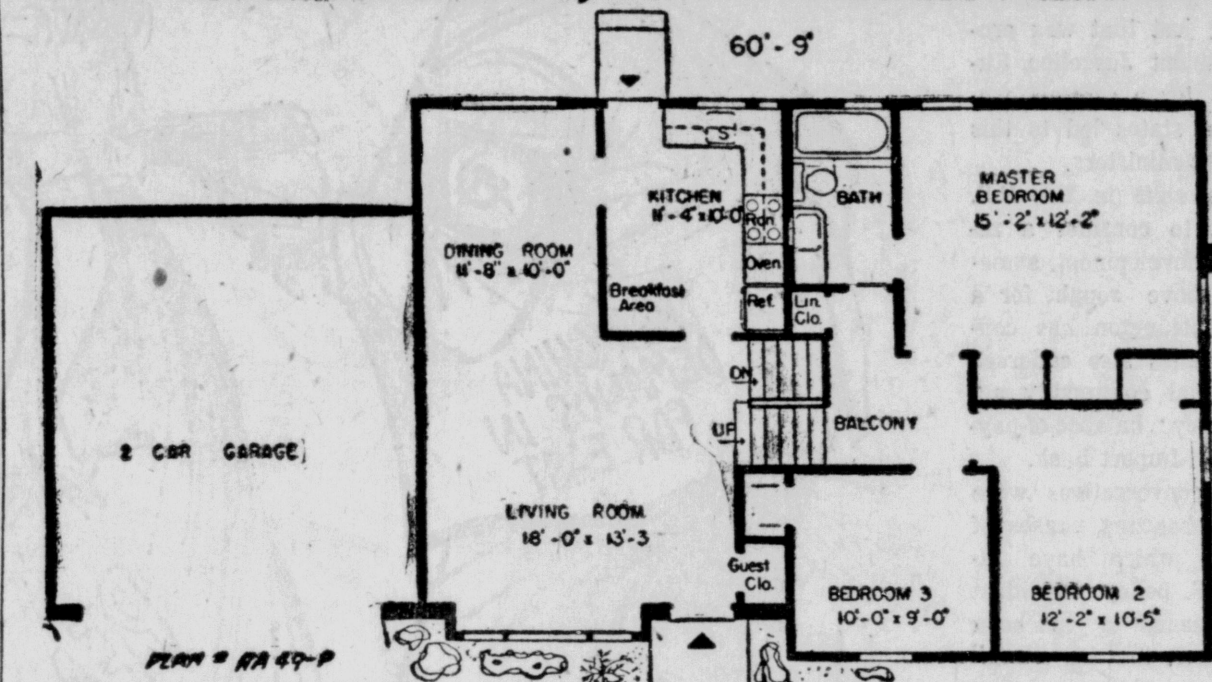

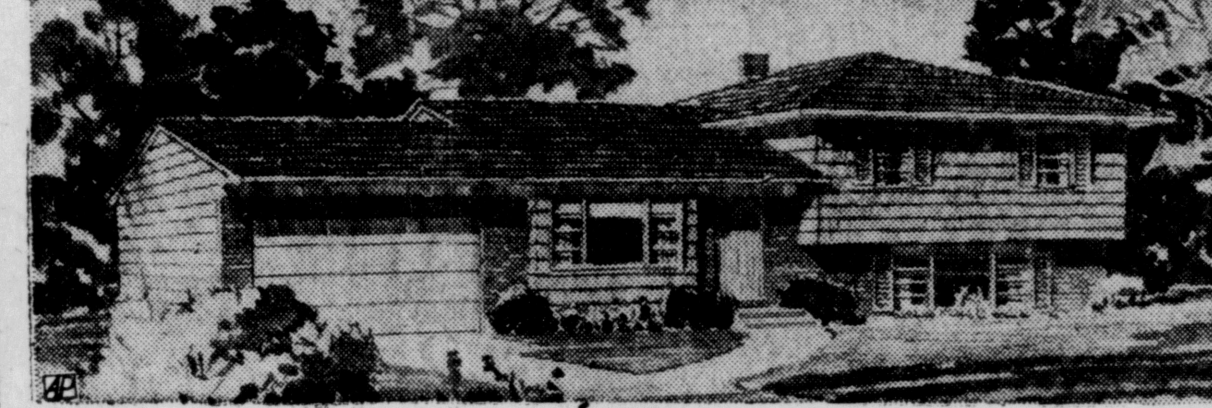

Thicknesses vary from one to four inches; widths, from 16 to 24 inches.

Material is installed between studding or joists, and is nailed or stapled in place.

INSULATION BOARD is a thick wallboard which serves as both insulation and a wall-finishing material. It's often used in attics, sometimes in addition to batt-type insulation.

Reflective insulation is metal foil, usually aluminum, which insulates by reflecting heat. It's ideal for keeping out summer heat. It is often used in combination with other insulations to serve as a vapor barrier.

Most insulating materials con-

Make certain that the insulation you purchase is both fire resistant and vermin-proof.

Vegetable fibers do not have those qualities unless specially treated.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: One of our window shades is causing trouble. When it is raised a little, you have to be very careful, to hold it in place a minute. If you don't, it shoots upward at great speed and bangs across the top of the window frame. Can this be fixed? The shade itself is in good condition.

ANSWER: Excessive tension in the spring inside the shade roller is causing the difficulty. Raise the shade carefully to the top of the window, then take the roller off the brackets. Now unroll the shade about halfway by hand. Replace the roller on the brackets. This procedure unwinds the spring partly. Test the shade and see whether it works properly. You will find less tension than previously. If the shade still snaps up too rapidly, repeat the process. Each time you take down the roller and unwind part of the shade by hand, you are unwinding the spring a little.

QUESTION: Some months ago I painted the wood trim on our house. The trim has now developed tiny splits in the surface. They do not seem to go very deep. Can you tell me what caused this and how to correct it?

ANSWER: This condition, known as checking, usually occurs when the final coat of paint was put on before the undercoat was thoroughly dry. You probably did not wait long enough for the undercoat to dry. Another possibility is that you used an inferior grade thinner in the undercoat mixture. Unless the condition is very bad, you can cover the checking with another coat of paint, possibly two coats. Before you put on the paint, sand the trim thoroughly and then remove the dust created by the sanding. And, of course, if you use a second coat, be sure the first is completely dry.

QUESTION: I have been making figurines in my basement for some time now and have been getting fairly good finishes with paint. But I never can seem to get the porcelain-like effect which I see on figurines sold in the stores. Can you tell me if this can be done?

ANSWER: It is doubtful whether you ever will be able to get the same results as the manufacturers of figurines, especially the more expensive types. But you can come close with a product known as pearl powder, sold in specialty art stores. After the paint on the figurine has dried for a day or two, dust it with this pearl powder, then rub vigorously with a soft, clean cloth. This will bring up a lustre that resembles porcelain. This will work with any paint except gold color.

Ceiling, Wall Cracks Can Be Eliminated

Unsightly cracks in walls and ceilings can be eliminated for the present and prevented in the future by applying decorative paneling right over the old surfaces, thereby skipping the chore of filling cracks and patching.

Marlite planks and blocks, a predecorated hardboard paneling with a protective baked plastic surface, are a popular material for such projects.

2. Self-Cleaning

The Not-So-New Look

One of the most important events in United States foreign affairs last week received virtually no publicity. It was planned that way.

The foreign ministers of 21 Latin American countries spent a day and a half in Washington talking informally with Secretary of State Dulles about inter-American relations. The sessions were private, but in statements afterward the visitors expressed pleasure and gratitude at the "new look" in U. S. policy toward its neighbors to the south.

Except for some particulars, the look was not really as new as it seemed. The U. S. always has been eager for friendship with Latin America. The trouble has been that as obligations elsewhere in the world demanded its urgent attention, the U. S. has tended sometimes to take that friendship for granted.

The deteriorating effect of such a lapse was shockingly manifested last spring when Vice President Nixon, on a "goodwill tour," was subjected to some serious indignities in Peru and Venezuela. Although offended and dismayed by his reception, the vice president skipped no recriminations after his return and instead strongly urged an immediate reappraisal of U. S. policy toward the Latins to see what had gone sour.

He was backed up later by Milton Eisenhower, who made a tour of his own and advised that Washington "must shore up its policies and programs with respect to Latin America."

The impetus for doing just that was provided by Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek, whose proposal for a summit conference among American states led to this week's meeting of foreign ministers.

The primary concrete shift in the U. S. position was agreement to consider a regional bank for economic development, something the Latin nations have sought for a long time but which Washington has consistently opposed. Mr. Dulles also endorsed discussions on international commodity agreements and emergency balance-of-payments loans by the Export-Import bank.

Other than that, the conversations were devoted chiefly to re-emphasizing phases of inter-American relations which have always been a part of U. S. policy. President Eisenhower himself attended a luncheon meeting to assure the guests that his administration is as deeply concerned as ever for their nations' welfare.

The message hit the mark. The ministers went away happy. Even if the U. S. attitude was not as new as they imagined, they were once more convinced Washington is a big brother and not a big snob.

The importance of this, aside from such considerations as hemispheric security and economic interdependence, was amply illustrated in the United Nations General Assembly this week when the Latin Americans were the only single bloc of nations that lined up solidly behind the U. S. in its fight to bar Red China.

Richard Nixon On His Own

Vice President Nixon today begins his campaigning for Republican candidates in the fall elections. Established as perhaps the most capable GOP "stumper" on the national scene, he is being flooded with requests to expand his schedule beyond the 10 speeches in four states he originally planned.

Regardless of the number of "whistle stops" he makes before Nov. 4, it is certain that observers in both parties will be listening more closely than ever to what Richard M. Nixon has to say. For, more than ever before, he will be speaking for himself.

In a dozen years, the Californian has moved from obscurity to a commanding position in both politics and government by combining his own abilities with a series of unusual opportunities.

As political spokesman for President Eisenhower, he has become singularly seasoned—for his age—on the campaign trail, with thousands of miles and hundreds of speeches to his credit in the last three major election years.

He has more than once displayed a talent for turning political attack to advantage, the memorable highlight being his explanation of a private campaign fund in the heat of the 1952 contest.

Through the desire of his boss and his own ambition he has bestowed unprecedented prestige and significance upon his office, which previously had been thought of primarily as a "graveyard for political careers."

Yet in all this, Mr. Nixon has been looked upon chiefly as the "salesman" for Mr. Eisenhower's administrative policies and for the Republican Party's platform. This is the logical year for him to break away from that reputation.

He heralded the break, perhaps, with his speech earlier this month advocating an easing of taxes on business and revision of income tax rates. The vice president made it clear he was speaking as his own man. He offered his proposals "not as administration policy," but as measures "that should have top priority for consideration by the administration and by the Congress at its next session."

If that is an indication, Richard Nixon—who has been termed by one of his harshest critics as "indifferent to doctrine"—can be expected to use his coming campaign efforts for a conscious statement of personal principle that would be the basis for his candidacy for top office two years hence.

Elementary, Watson

In this fast-moving scientific age when some of our most hallowed institutions are subjected to attack from all sorts of busybodying modernists, it is not surprising to hear that granddaddy of all super-sleuths, Sherlock Holmes, scornfully described as a buddy duddy.

The charge was leveled by a British movie-making company, which has the audacity to say such a thing at the same time it is remaking a Holmes classic, "The Hound of the Baskervilles." Without explaining his reasoning, a company official asserts that the story is good enough to put on the screen again but the Holmes name is not as attractive enough to occupy a prominent place in the movie's advertising.

But we fuddy duddies who think that Holmes is not one can take courage from the news that Baker Street's most famous resident is defended against the charge by a great scientific detection organization, Interpol. Spokesmen for that international police force wrote off the fuddy duddy claim that such words as "monstrous" and "shocking."

But then, policemen are accustomed to facing facts. And the fact is that Holmes will still be around for movie remaking long after the present upstart firm has passed into oblivion.

We wish mosquitoes had never learned to go bare-back riding.

Once Over

Determined to interview the two candidates for governor of New York, Averell ("Huck Finn") Harriman and Nelson ("Shoelless Joe") Rockefeller, both of whom have come up in the barefoot boy tradition, we contacted them the other day.

Mr. Harriman was sawing wood outside his log cabin in the desolate stony fields of Arden Hollow.

We tracked down Mr. Rockefeller, plowing his small potato patch over in the East Side of Seal Harbor.

"Excuse my looks," said Ave. "I've been painting the shack and have only one pair of overalls."

"You look fit," we said.

"Hard work from boyhood," he answered. "When I was a child my father was down to his last four railroads. I had to work my way through Yale counting money."

"What about your days as a shoeshine boy?" we asked.

"They were not bad, but it was rough carrying that shoeshine box on a polo pony," he said.

Q. You were born on the other side of the tracks, of course?

A. The family was so surrounded by rails I never was sure. You might say I was born on the other side of another railroad's other side.

Q. You have known the bitter battle to keep the wolf from the door?

A. Yes, and with taxes where they are it is getting tougher and tougher.

CON'ACTING MR. ROCKEFELLER, the Man With the Hoe it went like this:

Q. How are things?

A. Oh, I manage to scrape along somehow.

Q. What is your chief platform plank?

. The full dinner pail. I know what it is to go down to the brass factory with a cruller and a bottle of cold coffee.

Q. You will oppose the vested interest?

A. Yes. They're nice fellows but I don't like too much money in the hands of public servants.

Q. How did you manage to get an education?

A. I had to peddle petroleum from door to door and get subscriptions to additives.

Q. Did you ever have a paper route?

A. Yes indeed. It was when Dad was broke and I went to the Yukon in my bare feet to help.

We said we were sorry to take his time.

"That's okay. I was just taking a coffee break anyhow," he replied.

"It should be a colorful election. May the best Horatio Alger win," we said, happy to see two fine boys getting a break.

"THE INSOLENT CHARIOTS" by John Keats is a new book which gives a perfect name for automobiles as operated today.

Rules for bingo in New York say no prizes will be redeemed for cash and that the value of every prize must be posted. Wanna bet?

Art Carney in most roles is a top comedian but as Elwood P. Dowd, in "Harvey" even the rabbit must have known he was not the type. Whimsy escaped him. He was the pert, alert man-about-town, not the dreamy, calm fellow from a Never-Never-Land saloon. You felt Dowd had not ben out with a rabbit, but with Ralph Cramden and fellow howlers.

Jackie Gleason now has a country estate in Peekskill. "Awaywego Manor," perhaps.

H. K. L. sends this verse on Sherman Adams:

Little runs on lend-lease,
One vicuna coat
Make a public servant
Something of a "goat."

LOS ANGELES—Growing at the rate of 500,000 new inhabitants a year in most of the years since 1945, California is a community of strangers, unacquainted with their neighbors or the history, customs and political alignments of their new home.

This has been true of California ever since the immigration of the pathetic tide of $5,000-millionaires who retired from Iowa farms and came to suck oranges dropping from the trees, and drowse in the sun about the time when the Keystone Cops were helling around in the revolving doors.

The current political battle is a hopeless confusion of issues, personalities and parties. Even veteran citizens who have been here 5 years or more can't even comprehend, still less explain, the relations between Senator Knowland, retired from Washington to save his native state from union racketeers and socialism; Pat Brown, a Catholic but a left-wing Democrat who finds himself congenial with Walter Reuther and Harry Bridges; and Goody Knight, the incumbent Republican governor, now running for the senate as a Republican but as a blood enemy of Knowland, the Republican leader of the senate since Bob Taft died.

Knowland's issue is the right-to-work, or open shop, as a revolutionary overthrow of the teamsters union and a hundred other vicious bands of brigands. Knight, on the same ticket, is a closed-shop candidate. Brown, of course, is strictly union.

Knight is a flabby weakling of no known principles. Knowland a physical giant in robust health and a statesman of strong mind and respectable position in the world-at-large, is incomparably the better man in all ways except that just now, Knight seems stronger as a candidate.

Oddly, the sort of men who normally would whoop things up for Knowland are dragging their heels because he disarranged matters by suddenly pulling out of Washington to come back home and run for governor without consulting about Knight's wishes and Knight's traditional but unreal prerogative. No law said that Knowland had to stay in Washington and let Knight have another term as governor. And, as Mrs. Knowland has explained to crowds of women and to individuals, her Billy saw that it was "now or never" when he scanned the lineup of unioneers and the sweeping rush of socialism under Eisenhower coming in after Roosevelt and Truman.

BILLY COULDN'T WAIT while Reuther, Bridges, the brothers Kennedy of Massachusetts, the gibbering remnants of the Roosevelt household and their insensate henchmen in the lower orders took over his native state. The Knowlands are strong people and the senator undoubtedly did lay a plan to get elected governor this year and to rush up to the Republican National Convention in 1960 holding in his grip the mighty delegation of a state which is now the most turbulent revolution and mysterious political factor in the country.

Sacramento is a backwater to most Americans, but is a political capital as potent as Albany and joyously corrupt and parasitic. The state government has become such a maze of pension-hungry schemers and grafters that even many of the politicians know only phases of its mazes. The unconscionable pension of $16,000 a year which Earl Warren will draw Jan. 1, on top of his pay of $35,500 as chief justice, is not the worst of these legalized rackets which have grown into the laws and charters in recent years, some of them by vote of the people in referenda which they probably did not quite understand.

California once had a constitutional amendment proposition on the ballot which ran to 1500 words and would have revoked both federal and state constitutions, entrusted two strangers with the power to coin money and empowered those strangers to hand on to their selected successors the powers of Hitlerian dictatorship. Few voters and not many editors in California remember or could soon bone up on the details of that attempt, which was beaten only 3 to 2 in the balloting.

Warren's pension has caused the sharpest expressions of contempt by the faceless man, but only because Warren on his throne in Washington had taken on a smile of folksy benignity. It is $12,100 now. It goes up automatically the first of the year by legislative act.

THE STATE GOVERNMENT has grown so vast that state office buildings have been established in other centers just as the Albany bureaucracy has set up hives of parasites in New York and other big cities of the state, with thousands of half-speed leeches biding their time for pensions. "Public service" is the biggest thing going among the rackets now.

Rich men, normally Republicans who otherwise would have voted for Knowland, are angry because he showed ambition in daring to quit the senate and run for governor with the apparent intention of running for president next. It is not a novelty. It has been done before, but Knowland is in trouble even with men who would seem to be his natural henchmen. By the old formulas they are the fellows in white vesikits with dollar signs on them and yet they are drifting over to Brown, for certainly they can't tolerate Knowland.

Knowland has laid it down that if he is beaten, the dam will burst.

That is no exaggeration. But in many such cases in recent years dams have busted gradually. People don't know they are in flood waters until they start to gurggle.

Law In Oklahoma

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Statute Permits Segregated Public Schools

The mess of conflicting "legalities" in which the American people find themselves today over the integration question is best illustrated by the fact that in one state of the Union — namely, Oklahoma — it still is the "law of the land" to permit segregated public schools.

This paradox comes about because the Congress of the United States in 1907 entered into a binding compact with the people of Oklahoma specifically permitting them to maintain white and colored schools, respectively.

The act of Congress, which was embodied in the Constitution of the State of Oklahoma and ratified by the people of that state, declared: "That provisions shall be made for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools, which shall be open to all the children of said state and free from sectarian control; and said schools shall always be conducted in English: Provided, that nothing herein shall preclude the teaching of other languages in said public schools: And provided further, that this shall not be construed to prevent the establishment and maintenance of separate schools for white and colored children."

IT WILL BE noted that, at the same time this was passed by Congress and ratified by the people of the State of Oklahoma as a part of their constitution, it was specifically stipulated in the "enabling act" passed by Congress that the constitution of Oklahoma "shall make no distinction in civil or political rights on account of race or color."

Thus a differentiation was made between "civil or political rights," on the one hand, and the rights involved in the maintenance of separate schools, on the other. As late as June, 1950—four years before its decision overruling the "separate but equal" doctrine in a case involving state laws—the Supreme Court of the United States had an opportunity to declare this act of Congress invalid but did not do so.

The case before it concerned a Negro who had been admitted to a white college but who was given a desk apart from the other students, as provided by Oklahoma state law.

The Supreme Court said that, once admitted, a Negro had to be given equal treatment with the whites and that this state law violated the 14th Amendment.

The citizens of Oklahoma today can insist on the benefits given by a statute passed by Congress. The 14th Amendment, of course, does not restrict federal laws but applies solely to state laws.

It would be possible for some litigant to argue, without any state laws on the subject, "separate but equal" educational facilities are still legal in the State of Oklahoma because they have been authorized by an act of Congress which has never been repealed and which has never been ruled invalid by the Supreme Court of the United States.

IT IS TRUE that an act of Congress was also involved in the District of Columbia case, decided on May 17, 1954, when segregation was condemned in local schools. But an act of Congress providing for the governing of a territory or a federal district is not the same thing as an act of Congress which deals with the admission of a state and its rights under a written constitution.

It will be suggested that the Supreme Court would simply say in such a new case that it is "unthinkable" for one state to be ruled by a federal law while the others are not.

Certainly from time to time the Supreme Court has insisted that the "enabling act" which creates a new state does not add or subtract "civil or political rights" from the state but places it in these respects on a footing equal to the other states of the Union.

Education, on the other hand, has not been held legally to be a "civil or political right" but the grant of a privilege within the discretion of a state.

There is, however, another question involved—namely, when Congress admits a new state to the Union and makes a binding contract with it, can the Supreme Court alter that contract?

Certainly if there is a constitutional amendment passed subsequent to the admission of a state to the Union, such recently admitted state would be subject to the new amendments to the Constitution.

It will be insisted that the same principle applies with respect to decisions which afterward "interpret" the Constitution.

The fallacy in this, however, lies in the fact that, if a Supreme Court decision can change the "law of the land" at any time and there is no such thing as "settled law," then all the property rights granted to new states by the federal government in connection with land specially reserved for the use of the states, or state funds derived from such lands, might be placed in jeopardy at any moment by a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States overturning the "enabling act" by which a state was admitted to the Union.

THE BASIC principle involved is—as Abraham Lincoln defined it—that, once there is a decision by the Supreme Court and it is affirmed and reaffirmed, it becomes what is known as "settled law."

It is being urged by noted jurists that there should be no further change made in the status of such rulings except through the method prescribed in the Constitution itself for amending that document.

In other words, the experience of Oklahoma indicates the need for a constitutional amendment which would clear up for all time whether the Supreme Court of the United States has the right to change the "settled law" of the land whenever the justices change or whenever their personal whims may influence them to reverse previous decisions.

There are at least 10 states in the Union which have inserted in their constitutions the wording of laws passed by Congress which specifically affirm the right of these states "forever" to retain "exclusive control" over their public school systems.

What does the phrase "exclusive control" mean now?

Does it mean that the states retain the right to decide which pupils shall enter their schools, or must they now submit their school rosters each term to federal judges to determine whether or not they have properly passed upon the qualifications of their students?

This is only one of many issues that will plague the federal courts for years to come, due to the action of the Supreme Court of the United States in overturning the existing system of handling "settled law" in the United States.

1958's Strength

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrial leaders today are asking: How big a gain in business can we expect? Some brave ones are already answering.

If the turn in the economy means better sales prospects, they need to pinpoint the share they can expect and to set the production and marketing plans that will capture it.

Coast-to-coast telephone interviews today with leaders in key industries and some government spending experts show how the thinking is running.

It adds up largely to a moderate to good advance this fall in durables and soft goods, with 1959 prospects brighter. The interviews highlight a special marketing conference here of the American Management Assn.

Malcolm P. Ferguson, president of Bendix Aviation in Detroit, stresses the government's big role. He foresees "a four to five year period of defense expenditures substantially at the present rate and with increased emphasis on new weapons systems and research and development." But he looks for "little or no increase in the volume of procurement of so-called conventional equipment and soft goods."

In this connection the Department of Commerce is just out with a prediction that procurement contracts to be signed by the Defense Department this fiscal year will reach 19 billion dollars, up a billion from last year.

Robert S. Stevenson, president of Allis-Chalmers of West Allis, Wis., says "1958 is showing decided strength" in the farm equipment industry, which felt the recession ahead of most others, and is recovering sooner. A big help: farm income is 5 to 6 per cent ahead of 1957.

Arthur Rosenbaum, manager of the Economic Research Division of Sears, Roebuck of Chicago, thinks national retail sales of soft goods will be only 1 per cent higher this fall than last, but looks for a 4 to 5 percent gain for next spring over the previous year's figures. Women's and children's apparel show a stronger sales trend than men's clothing. Retail competition is holding down the pressures for price increases, he says.

A. B. Layton, president of Crown-Zellerbach of San Francisco, reports the paper industry operating around 85 per cent of capacity although production is only 3 per cent below the 1956 high. He says: "The excess capacity comes from substantial new facilities started several years ago in expectation of increasing growth, but completed amid a recession."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Soon there will be few significant steel corporations without super-secret divisions or space scientists attached. When at a Steel Workers Union convention you catch the jargon of a to m i c researchers and delvers into the m y s t e r i e s of purest metals — the r e a c t i o n s of which are still unknown — then you know that the unions have begun to change.

Soon we will not know them as they were before the day, for example, when Westinghouse announced that it can set up an "electron farm" on the moon.

Or when U.S. Steel, at its Monroeville, Pa., hush-hush laboratory, makes iron so pure that we simply don't recognize the hoary old metal.

Alongside such developments, the internal politics of this earth union, now worth more than 33 million dollars, becomes a mundane story.

WHAT IS fascinating in the report of President David McDonald and the other union officers to the United Steelworkers' ninth convention is the revelation that the industry is using nuclear and atomic fuel and equipment.

"The use of atomic energy will become more and more a common everyday facility in the processing and manufacturing of steel," the 3,000 delegates were told.

One large steel producer already has some 150 pieces of machinery and equipment operating on atomic energy.

Other firms have obtained special licenses from the Atomic Energy Commission for mechanisms using nuclear power. This is so new that the licenses are not transferable.

The use of such equipment has begun changing the type of manpower needed to turn out steel. In the statistics reported by the officers is buried the biggest story of all, it seems to me. By 1970, the union leaders say more than one out of every three workers in the steel industry will be a technical or clerical worker.

That's a decade away, but the change is setting in quickly. Right now about 20 per cent, or one out of every five workers, is a white collar man or woman.

This is a 100 per cent increase in the number of white collar people since the union was launched two decades ago.

BY FAR, these white collar people are not yet union members. To meet this challenge, the union launched a vigorous national campaign to organize the office and technical workers.

If this drive doesn't succeed, then more than a third — and, after a while, possibly a half — of the men and women who will be making steel by pushing buttons and reading charts will be non-union.

For almost a year now the big union has been briefing its organizers and regional directors on new techniques and new problems involved in going after the white collar people. Special literature has been distributed, including an "Office and Technical Workers Fact Book."

This was specifically written as a handbook for stiff people and local union officers thrown into the drive. Special briefings on atomic era unionizing have been held in Philadelphia, Indianapolis, Sparrows Point, Tampa, New Orleans,

Washington and Birmingham. SOMEWHERE in this convention city the "white collar" department is planning new parleys on the subject in other big cities.

As the white collar people come in, they bump the mill workers, the fellows whose hands have turned out the steel for America's might, the workers you've seen photographed in the red glare of blast furnaces and open hearths.

Since 1953, for example, some 20,000 production jobs have been eliminated from the steel industry. I talk not of unemployment here. I mean specific job openings which have been sealed off forever by automatic or atomic equipment.

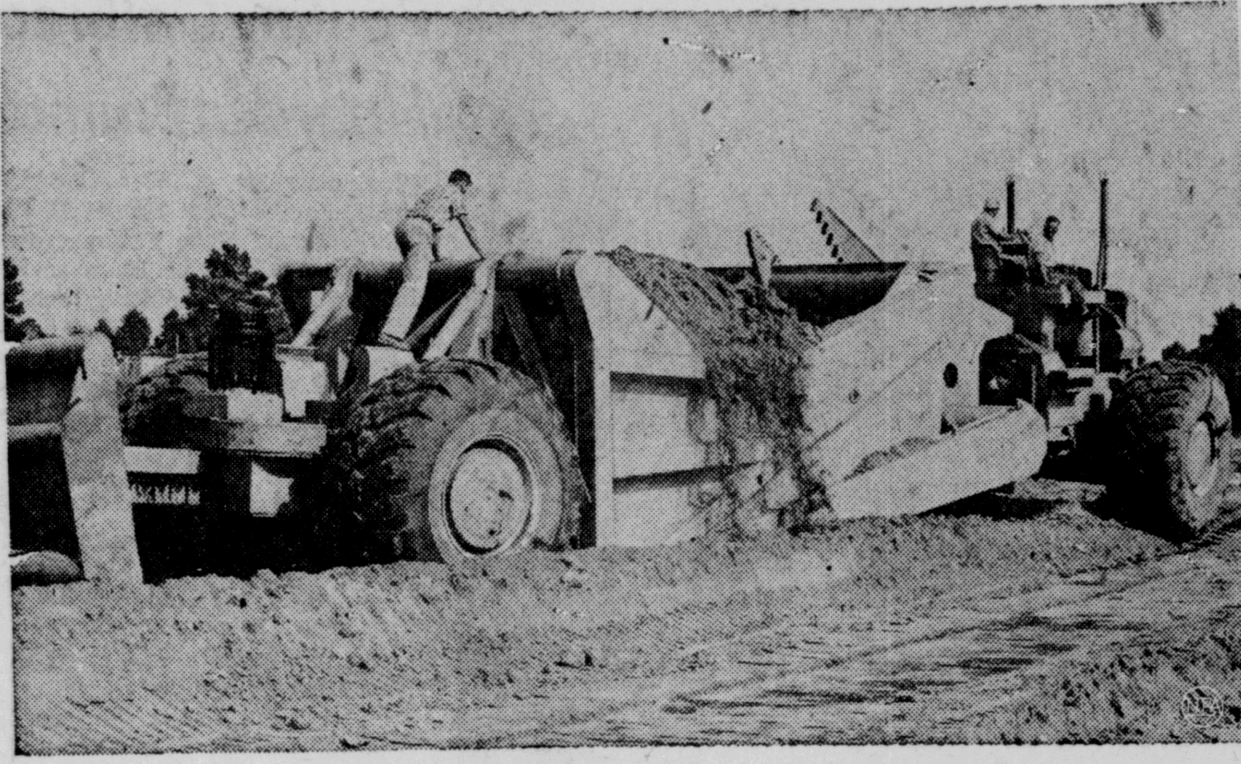

Multiply this by what's happening in most of the big industries. The white collar workers are zooming. The production workers are fast decreasing.

In the auto industry, for example, more than 135,000 jobs have been totally wiped out in the past five years. In textile, more than 180,000 jobs have been eliminated. In electrical manufacturing, 65,000 jobs have gone. In oil refining, the figure is close to 20,000 jobs. In railroads, it comes to 200,000 jobs; in mining, 85,000 jobs and in chemicals, 10,000 jobs.

In all these fields, the pattern is the same as in the steel industry — jobs wiped out by improved production techniques or automation.

We'll get to the moon but we'll never be the same.

Resting on wheels over seven feet tall, it can move at 20 miles per hour fully loaded. Price of "Goliath" will be "in the $100,000 class."

Columbiana County's share in the final distribution of $9,821,187 in motor vehicle registration fees, collected in 1957, will be $135,989, according to George C. An additional distribution of $1,598,797 representing nine per cent county and five per cent township road mileage funds will be released soon, Braden said.

Paulini-Galbreath Vows Heard In Emmanuel Church

The marriage of Miss Cheryl Louise Paulini and Bruce Alan Galbreath took place Friday evening at 7:30 in the Emmanuel Lutheran Church. The Rev. Richard D. Friesman officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Fronius of 885 Prospect St. are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Galbreath of North Georgetown.

Vases of white chrysanthemums and pompons enhanced the altar setting, which was lighted by tapers in twin seven-branch candelabra.

Michel Stumperth, a cousin of the bride, was soloist. He sang "Wedding Prayer," "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Gilbert Timm presided at the organ.

The bride was given in marriage by her stepfather. She wore a ballerina dress of shrimp colored chiffon with matching mitts. Her shoulder length veil of the same color was attached to a crown studded with rhinestones. She carried a showered bouquet of white roses and feathered carnations.

Miss Evelyn Camp, maid of honor, was attired in a gown styled with a dark blue velvet bodice and lighter blue taffeta balloon skirt. Her bouquet was fashioned of pink carnations and pink streamers.

Eugene Stallsmith was best man. Homer Marty, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Richard Paulini, the bride's brother, ushered.

Mrs. Fronius wore a sapphire blue silk sheath with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a topaz crepe sheath with dark brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

200 At Reception

Two hundred guests from Michigan, Maryland, Cincinnati, Alliance, Canton, North Georgetown and Salem were greeted at the reception in the church social rooms.

Vases of varicolored roses decorated with either end of the refreshment table, which was centered with the three-tiered wedding cake. The cake, topped with a bride and bridegroom figurine, was encircled with greenery and white carnations.

Miss Mary Lukanus, Mrs. Homer Marty, the bridegroom's sister, and Mrs. Leland Willis, an aunt of the bride, served.

A graduate of Salem High School, Class of 1957, the bride is a secretary for the Deming Co. Her husband, a graduate of Goshen Union High School, Class of 1955, is a draftsman employed by the Alliance Manufacturing Co. For her going away ensemble, the bride chose a red and white knit suit with black accessories complemented by a white carnation corsage.

The couple will reside in North Georgetown.

At the rehearsal dinner Thursday night in the home of the bridegroom's parents, gifts were presented to their attendants by the bride and bridegroom.

Traveler's Album

By RELMAN MORIN

By The Associated Press
Snaps from a traveler's album: I had a here-we-go-again feeling when they told me their plan—and also the old, unfeeling excitement of the story.

"We have found many thousands of pieces of his temple," the archaeologist said. "We are going to put them together and try to reconstruct the temple. Perhaps it will tell us more about him."

Akhen-Aton, king of Egypt, came to the throne somewhere around 1375 B.C.
He had built a temple to a god. After his death, the people tore it down. Their fury was such that they even smashed the stones to small bits.

These are the pieces the archaeologist mentioned. They were used as fill in later royal buildings. Now, he said, they are about to try to reassemble them, a jigsaw puzzle of unimaginable dimensions.

Why undertake such a gigantic task?

Because the story of Akhen-Aton for years has puzzled, fascinated, and infuriated Egyptologists. They fight like tigers over the meaning of his works.

One called him "the first individual in human history," a very high compliment. But another says he is "the most overrated figure in all history."

Apart from that, his actions may—repeat may—hold the clue to the mystery of the origin of the Christian belief that there is only one God.

He lived eight centuries before the Hebrew prophets. At that time, everywhere in the ancient world, men worshipped a whole pantheon of gods. The idea of a single, all-embracing deity was completely foreign to their thinking.

Did Akhen-Aton invent the concept of monotheism? Did this concept pass, possibly through Israelite captives in Egypt, to the Hebrews? Is it possible that Moses learned this concept in Egypt and passed it on to them?

These are only a few of the questions that swirl around the name of Akhen-Aton, nearly 4,000 years after he lived.

Briefly, what he did was break away from the established religion of Egypt in which Ammon-Ra presided over a host of gods. He asserted that the "Aton," manifesting itself in the life-giving essence of the sun, was the only God. Thus, he changed his name to embrace the term, "Aton."

He left Thebes, the capital, and built a new capital at Amarna. His temples, in complete contrast to those of the old religion, were open to the sun and the sky.

His "Hymn to Aton" is startlingly similar to passages in the 104th Psalm. Place them side by side and you find not only the same thoughts expressed but frequently the identical phrases.

He also revolutionized Egyptian art forms, freeing the artists from the conventional ways in which they portrayed royalty. You can see graceful, informal pictures of the king, playing with his children, and with his arm around his wife—who, incidentally, was his sister, Nefertiti, of the long, swan-like neck.

After he died, the priesthood of Ammon quickly re-established the old religion. And, of course, their own high stations in society.

The temples were torn down. Chisels chipped the name, "Aton," off monuments wherever it appeared. Everything possible was done to obliterate forever the memory of the "great heretic" and his God.

In recent years, scholars have tended to downgrade Akhen-Aton. Some claim he had political rather than religious motives for his acts. Some say the Egyptians worshipped an "Aton," among all the others, before he was born. Some say the concept of monotheism was not new and could not have been transmitted to the Israelites. Others disagree flatly.

And so on. Yet the story is eternally fascinating because of its implications for Christianity.

I was in the glorious ruins of Karnak in Egypt recently when the archaeologists told me about the jig-saw puzzle plan.

"Here we go again," I thought. "Here comes a new set of arguments."

California Engineer Missing; Invention Prevents Air Crashes

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A missing engineer may have walked out on an interview worth a fortune. Elmer C. Meukel disappeared from his home here June 22, broken and discouraged by long, unrewarded effort to market an electronic device for preventing airplane collisions.

Now an engineering firm that Meukel contacted before he left says the government is willing to put five million dollars into developing the device, with 3 per cent, or $150,000 going to Meukel.

Parts of the prototype he built have been found at the home of a friend. They have been turned over to police for safekeeping. But Meukel took other parts with him.

Dr. Fred Hagelstein, vice president of Polaris Engineering Corp. of Los Angeles, said Defense Department officials have expressed keen interest in the invention.

"It will see anything approaching an aircraft from any quarter and will automatically divert the aircraft to avoid a collision," he said. "It is imperative that we find Meukel."

The story of Meukel's struggle against debt and discouragement was told by his wife Jean, mother of three children.

"Things just piled up on him and he couldn't stand seeing his family go without," she said. "He said he was going to San Francisco to look for work."

She has traced him from San Francisco to Spokane, Wash., to Reno, Nev., where the trail ends.

A brother, Melvin Meukel of Spokane, said Elmer wrote him three weeks ago from Reno asking for money, which he sent in care of general delivery.

"I haven't heard from him since," he said.

Communist circles here began taking a cheerful view after a secret meeting of Communist Chinese Ambassador Wang with Communist newsmen. Wang was reported to have told them, in general terms, that everything would turn out all right.

Highest Ranking Use

Sunday's statement by Chou was regarded as the highest ranking use of what diplomats here call the 40-hour technique. They say that 40 hours before each meeting between Wang and Ambassador Beam the Chinese have issued a press statement which sets the tone for Wang.

The talk will continue without much sense of urgency. Diplomatic circles think the two ambassadors merely delivering messages from their governments.

Earlier "leaks" of a time limit on the talks by Washington seem to be forgotten and there is now no indication of a deliberate break off, although the possibility of failure at any moment is freely admitted.

Informed circles say the Chinese Communists have been impressed by American military buildup in Formosa Strait and the ability to supply Quemoy. They said this has moderated the tone of the talks.

State Highway Patrol Capt. C.R. Williams estimated damage at Southport between $50,000 and $750,000.

Wilmington, the state's biggest coastal city, suffered an estimated million dollars damage, said the highway patrol. Most of this was to residences and businesses.

Farther up the coast, Mayor Pro Tem George Kanoutis of Kure Beach estimated property damage at $250,000, beach erosion at $300,000. Mayor Glenn M. Tucker estimated Carolina Beach damage at 1 1/2 million dollars, but said no property owners were wiped out.

By Saturday afternoon Helene had passed the most densely populated areas. Her effect was felt several miles inland in rough weather and rains, but damage there was not severe. Later that evening she howled off toward the open sea.

Hurricane Helene probably was nearly as strong as Hurricane Hazel of 1954. But Helene kept her distance at sea. Hazel caused 21 deaths in the Carolinas and an estimated 145 million dollars damage in the four-state area alone.

As to the blockade of Quemoy, he said, it "is not as serious today as it was at the beginning of the present Red attacks. The fighting has proved the Communists cannot succeed by using an artillery blockade."

Chiang at first said the Nationalist government stand on debating the Formosa Strait crisis in the United Nations was under study.

He later said China would agree to the debate if the hostilities spread and there was evidence the Soviet Union was behind the aggression.

As to the blockade of Quemoy, he said, it "is not as serious today as it was at the beginning of the present Red attacks. The fighting has proved the Communists cannot succeed by using an artillery blockade."

The question of neutralizing Quemoy or Matsu, the other anchor of Nationalist China's island outpost line off the coast of Red China, would not be discussed in any negotiations either by his government or the United States, he stated.

The question of neutralizing Quemoy or Matsu, the other anchor of Nationalist China's island outpost line off the coast of Red China, would not be discussed in any negotiations either by his government or the United States, he stated.

He re-emphasized that China could handle the defense of Quemoy without use of U.S. ground forces.

"I can right here and now assure the American people . . . that our armed forces are quite capable of repeating their victory in 1949 when the Communists tried to invade Quemoy," he declared. "There also will be no call for American ground forces to participate in actual fighting in Formosa Strait."

Guarding Your Health

By Dr. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Questions and Answers

Sometimes a person can have two apparently unrelated disorders at the same time.

Q—I am suffering from high blood pressure of around 200 and have a heartbeat of 52 a minute. This has been as slow as 40 beats minute. Would you please discuss this and say whether there is any relationship?—Ms. E. F.

A—There are several possibilities for the high blood pressure. In a good many instances the cause cannot be identified. A slow heart, such as that described, is quite likely the result of what is known as a heart block. This means that the electric impulses passing through the heart are in some cases stopped by failure of the conduction system.

It is possible that both the high blood pressure and the low heart could be the result of some similar hardening process, but it is also possible that they are unrelated. It is true, too, that some people normally have a slow heart-beat without apparent relation to disease. A good many athletes show a slower than normal heart-beat.

Without knowing all of the circumstances and making technical studies, one could not say what should be done, either for the high blood pressure or the slow heart-beat.

Q—Would you please say something about water on the knee?—Mrs. J.

A—This presumably refers to the accumulation of what is known as synovial fluid in the knee joint itself or in the bursa which lies close to it. The latter is a form of bursitis, probably the result of injury. It sometimes goes under the name of "housemaid's knee."

The former—that is, fluid on the knee joint itself—could be the result of injury or any one of several kinds of arthritis. It sometime appears in a form of allergy known as giant hives. The treatment may involve removal of the fluid through a needle, often followed by bandaging. Other treatments are sometimes needed, depending on the degree and apparent cause of the difficulty.

Q—Please give an explanation for a clicking sound in the ear.—K.M.

A—It is said that there are three possible sources for such sounds. An abnormal amount of sticky mucus in the eustachian tube and nearby areas - a rhythmic spasm of certain muscles lying internally; and last, as result of injury to the eardrum or its nerve supply.

Q—I have been told that my uterus is double and I should have an operation. It was supposed to have been almost impossible for me to become pregnant, but I am. What are my chances for carrying this baby for nine months?—B.

A—This is an unusual situation. I should not want to hazard a guess as to the chances of carrying the infant to full term, but certainly hope that it will occur. The double uterus is what is known as a congenital anomaly and, of course, will not disappear of itself.

Q—Have the hormones ACTH and cortisone been used with success for multiple sclerosis?

A—Not so far as I know, and I should doubt that they would have any favorable effect.

By The Associated Press
The American League "race" that really ended in May ground to a close Sunday with the New York Yankees winning by 10 games and 40-year-old Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox clinching his sixth batting championship.

Williams smashed seven hits in 11 trips in the final series at Washington, beating out teammate Pete Runnel who had only five hits in 19 at-bats.

Williams clinched it with a home run into the center field bleachers. He had doubled earlier in Boston's 6-4 victory over Washington.

The final figures showed Williams .328 and Runnels .322.

Boston's eighth triumph in its last nine games sewed up third place while Cleveland took fourth by whipping Detroit 6-2. Chicago, using young pitchers after a second-place finish, ground up an 11-4 score over Kansas City.

Don Larsen and Tom Sturdivant tuned up for World Series duty as the Yankees swept two from Baltimore 7-0 and 6-3.

Mickey Mantle won the home run crown with 42 although he had to be satisfied with three singles on the final day. Cleveland's Rocky Colavito hit his 41st to come within one of a tie.

Larsen almost certainly won himself a starting job in the series against Milwaukee by his fine job against Baltimore in the first game. The perfect game pitcher of the 1956 Series allowed only one hit in five scoreless innings, striking out four. Ryne Duren and Johnny Kucks finished the job with a two-hit shutout.

Sturdivant, like Larsen a sore-armed disappointment in the second half of the season, allowed six hits and two runs in six innings.

Rookie Gary Bell went all the way for Cleveland in the "money" game against Detroit. Victory meant a fourth-place share of the Series cash for the Indians. They finished half a game ahead of the Tigers, playing only 153. A rained-out game with Baltimore never was replayed.

Rookie Stover McIlwain, Hal Trosky and Bob Shaw pitched for the White Sox. Lou Klimchick of the A's hit his first big league homer.

Salem Poloists Win 7-5 Over Harbor Hills

The Salem Polo Club ended its regular league season on a winning note Sunday with a 7-5 win over Harbor Hills of Buckeye Lake near Columbus. The win put the squad in a first place tie in the Penn-Ohio loop with Youngstown. However, Youngstown still has two matches remaining with Harbor Hills and should the Buckeye Lake team win both, Salem would be undisputed champion.

Salem had lost 10-4 on Saturday to the El Rancho team of Columbus.

The squad came home yesterday with the J. B. Chronik Memorial Trophy as a reward for having defeated Harbor Hills. Dr. and Mrs. Chronik were instrumental in originating the Harbor Hills team.

The trophy measured 18 inches in height.

The club will take part in the Shad Johnson round robin tourney in Youngstown Oct. 12. They have drawn Cleveland as their first foe. Other clubs entered are Youngstown and Toledo.

Indians Finish In Fourth Place

Tribe Beats Tigers; Gary Bell Is Winner

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians have finished their 1953 season in fourth place — a notch higher than the pre-season experts rated them—and with four regular players hitting above .300.

A 6-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers here Sunday gave the Tribe a 77-76 record for the season, compared with 76-77 last year when they finished sixth under Kerby Farrell. Detroit wound up 77-77.

The last-day triumph meant about $500 in World Series receipts shares for each Indian. And it had a value that couldn't be reckoned in dollars and cents for Joe Gordon who took over as manager on June 27 when the Tribe was in sixth place. Under Gordon the Indians won 46 and lost 40.

Gary Bell, 21-year-old rookie right-hander from Texas, earned a champagne party toast from his teammates for pitching a six-hitter against the Tigers. Spoiling his shutout was Al Kaline's 16th home run, clouted in the sixth inning after Harvey Kuenn had led off with a single.

Kaline also had a single in four trips, enabling him to beat out by one point the Tribe's Vic Power for fourth place among the league's top average batters. Power got a single in four times up to finish with .312 to Kaline's .313.

Rocky Colavito smashed his 41st home run of the year in the seventh after Don Lee had hit Minnie Minoso with a pitched ball. That raised the Cleveland slugger's runs-batted-in to 113. New York's Mickey Mantle with 42 homers and Boston's Jackie Jensen with 122 RBIs were the only players to excel the Rock in these departments.

Colavito's .303 batting average was a point better than Minoso's final mark, and catcher Russ Nixon lashed out three singles in four times up to jump his average by an even .005 to .301.

Not since the world championship team of 1914 has Cleveland had four regulars who hit .300 and up. The four who did it 10 years ago were Lou Boudreau, Dale Mitchell, Larry Doby and Allie Clark.

Attendance for the finale was to 663,804, which was 58,452 less to 63.8, which was 58,452 less than a year ago and the lowest since the World War II years of 1942-45.

RIVALS AGAIN—Milwaukee's Fred Haney and Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees will be opposing managers in the World Series opening Wednesday. Last year the Braves won.

Canton Freedom For Congress Wins Salem Softball Tourney

Canton Freedom for Congress won the second annual Salem Invitational Softball Tournament Sunday afternoon at Kelly field when they defeated Butler, Pa. Serventis 3-1 in the finals.

Chuck Hatfield was the winning pitcher allowing just four hits and fanning five. Chuck Miller was the loser whiffing five and allowing just four hits also.

Canton took a 1-0 lead in the third on a solo homerun by catcher Paul Harold. In the fourth, Rudy Prestier singled for r Canton and later scored on two errors. A walk, a sacrifice and a wild pitch scored Canton's final run in the fifth. Butler loaded the bases with one out in the seventh but could score only once on a single by Bob Voelker.

Butler had moved into the finals with a 3-0 semi-final victory over Akron Red's Bar.

Joe Embroski won over Rip Fugate in a battle of southpaws.

All Butler's runs were unearned as Akron had five errors. Butler got two in the third on two errors and one in the fourth on two more miscues. Fugate fanned eight and Embroski nine. Akron got two hits and Butler six.

The tourney ended just one month to the date from when it started Aug. 28. Thirty-two teams were entered in the double elimination tournament.

Groza Boot Wins Opener For Browns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Cleveland Browns got off on the right foot—or rather the right toe—in the National Football League opener with the Los Angeles Rams.

That toe has been winning games for more than a decade for the Browns and Lou Groza did it again Sunday on a 9-yard field goal with 23 seconds remaining in the game. It brought Cleveland a dramatic 30-27 triumph in a contest that seemed almost out of reach.

Last season the Browns opened their march to the Eastern Division crown with a 6-3 victory over the New York Giants. Groza's three-pointer in the final 15 seconds spelling the difference.

Groza wasn't the only hero in the wild scoring contest. Fullback Jim Brown scored twice and ran up 171 yards on 24 tries. One of his touchdown jaunts, for 38 yards after taking a flip from quarterback Milt Plum, was a sheer power run. The former Syracuse star rammed over several would-be Los Angeles' tacklers and even knocked down one of his own blockers, Chuck Noll, en route to the end zone.

After Groza's go-ahead field goal was posted, the 69,993 fans still saw more excitement as the Rams tried to tie it up. Tom Wilson, the Los Angeles fullback, took the kickoff and ran it back to the Rams' 25.

Willy Wade, the quarterback who had a big day with 17 completions out of 22 attempts for 289 yards and a pair of touchdowns, firmed an aerial to Del Shofner who raced to the Cleveland 41.

With only 18 seconds left, Paige Cothren came in for a field goal attempt from the 48. He earlier had booted three-pointers from 40 and 11-yard lines.

His long boot for a tie was wide. The Browns' triumph was a comeback all the way. They had trailed 10-0, 17-7 at halftime and 27-14 after three periods.

But a 16-point spurge wiped out the deficit in the final period. Trailing by 13 points, Plum hit flanker back Ray Renfro with a 21-yard scoring pass, but Groza's kick was blocked by Los Angeles linebacker Les Richter.

That left it 27-20. Less than 12 minutes remained in the game. After an exchange of punts, the Rams' speedy halfback, Jon Arnett, fumbled on his own 41. When the ball squirted loose, Cleveland's Junior Wren picked it up and streaked 34 yards down the sideline to the Los Angeles 7.

Fullback Brown made it across the scoring stripe on his second try. The extra point by Groza tied it at 27-27.

The Browns started the winning drive after taking a punt on their own 30. Brown powered for 15 yards in two shots and rookie halfback Bobby Mitchell sprinted for 22 yards in the key gainer around end.

With the ball on the Los Angeles 33, Brown continued to eat up ground with a run to the 22. Plum kept the ball for 15 yards after finding his receivers covered.

Mitchell picked up four yards and Brown another one yard as Cleveland was faced with a third down situation on the two and 23 seconds left. Passing up a try for a touchdown, coach Paul Brown called on the trusty toe of Groza. It worked.

Phils' Outfielder Nips Willie Mays

Dave Philley Sets Pinch Hit Record

By The Associated Press
Richie Ashburn clinched his second National League batting title despite a strong challenge by Willie Mays as the teams finished their seasons Sunday.

Ashburn collected three singles in four official trips while his Philadelphia Phillies were edging Pittsburgh in 10 innings 6-4.

Manager Billy Rigney gave Mays a hand by batting him in the leadoff position. Needing a perfect five for five to catch the Phils center fielder, he managed to get three for five, including his 29th home run. The final averages showed Ashburn .350, Mays .347.

Alex Kellner and Brooks Lawrence of Cincinnati teamed up with a four-hit 4-0 shutout of the pennant-winning Milwaukee Braves. Manager Fred Haney paraded Bob Rush, Carlton Willey, Ernie Johnson and Juan Pizarro in a World Series tuneup. Willey, likely third game pitcher, was the loser.

With Mays showing the way, the Giants drubbed St. Louis 7-2, finishing in third place 12 games behind the Braves. St. Louis, a major disappointment, wound up in a fifth-place tie with Chicago, 20 games back. The Cubs and Los Angeles finished their seasons Saturday while the Coliseum was given over to pro football Sunday.

Almost overlooked in the excitement over the batting race was the fact that Dave Philley set a major league record with his eighth straight pinch hit for the Phils.

Rush pitched three scoreless innings, Willey and Johnson each gave up two runs and Pizarro retired the side in order in the ninth.

Ohio State Faces Washington After Saturday's SMU Scare

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes probably would be just as satisfied if he never again sees a Texas passer or a spread formation.

Woody's Buckeyes triumphed 23-20 over Southern Methodist in Saturday's opener, before the stadium's biggest-ever crowd of 83,113, with points-after touchdown providing the margin.

With Don Meredith operating from a spread, after a split-off offense failed to produce results, the Mustangs piled up a huge 233 yards in the air and scored two of their touchdowns on 20-yard tosses.

In the final analysis, it was passing which gave the non-passing Ohioans the victory. Although all three Buck touchdowns came on the ground, two by Don Clark and one by Bob White, four conversion points were racked up on passes from Frank Kremblas to Dick LeBeau, with Kremblas getting one extra point on a place kick.

The Mustangs, never even in the game but always dangerous as they alternated with Ohio in scoring touchdowns mused up two attempts to pass for extra points. Had both clicked, SMU might have been a 24-23 victor instead of a 23-20 loser.

Kremblas, who gave one of his most finished performances, will be out of action one or two games because of a last-minute shoulder separation. Sophomore Jerry Fields, with less than four minutes of varsity action, will take over the quarterback spot against Washington next Saturday. Washington defeated Minnesota 24-21 Saturday.

The Washington-Ohio game, with the Bucks going after their 11th straight conquest, features a 22-contest program for the state's teams next weekend. Ten of the 22 are against out-of-state foes, a department in which the Buckeye clubs have an astounding record of 15 victories against two losses and a tie for the campaign. The Ohioans have outscored the out-of-staters, 358-200.

Among next Saturday's features are Heidelberg at Wittenberg, an Ohio Conference fray between the stat's two top-scoring clubs, and Ohio University at Kent State, a contest between a pair of two-game winners. Ohio University could ease into the Mid-American Conference lead with a victory, and Kent could tie the Miami for top spot with a win.

The weekend slate:

Friday night
Eastern Michigan at Youngstown.

Saturday afternoon
Washington at Ohio State, Ohio University at Kent State, Hiram at Capital, Kenyon at Otterbein, Muskingum at Denison, Akron at Ohio Wesleyan, Bethany at Western Reserve, Case at Wayne State, John Carroll at Thiel, Xavier at Miami, Oberlin at Swarthmore, Central State at Manchester, Ind.

Saturday night
Marietta at Mount Union, Heidelberg at Wittenberg, Houston at Cincinnati, Findlay at Ashland, Ohio Northern at Wilmington, Defiance at Bluffton, Bowling Green at Dayton, New Haven State at Baldwin Wallace, Louisville at Toledo.

Oklahoma, Army Look Good In Opening Day Victories

By The Associated Press

This could be the year college football abandons the traditional running game and begins a new era of wide-open offense.

Already two of the nation's top coaches—Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma and Red Blaik of Army—have started the swing. Both were successful in their openers, so other coaches are certain to follow the pattern.

It was a case of tightly packed defenses snagging T-formation attacks. Something had to be done about it.

The one absolute essential to this idea is a good passer. He is the one who must keep the opposition off guard. He must force the defense to spread, not knowing whether there will be a pass or run.

Oklahoma, which overwhelmed West Virginia, 47-14, last Saturday, showed split ends, flankers, wide laterals and long forward passes. The entire show was fabulously successful, for West Virginia is no one's pushover.

It also raised the possibility that this could be one of Wilkinson's Associated Press poll apparently greatest machines. His club plays Oregon of the Pacific Coast Conference this Saturday and more of the same strategy can be expected.

Army overwhelmed South Carolina, 45-8, using change of direction plays, optional passes on almost every wide run and a lonely end who is so far out he doesn't even get into the huddles.

Like West Virginia, South Carolina was rated a pretty good team. It was good enough to thrash Duke in its opener, but was completely surprised by the Army shenanigans. The Cadets play Penn State this week. The Nittany Lions, who beat Penn 43-0, know what to expect, so it should be interesting.

Ohio State, No. 1 in last week's Associated Press poll, apparently is sticking to its grinding ground game. The Buckeyes just did get past Southern Methodist, 23-20, and stayed right on the ground for the victory. Ohio State entertains Washington this week.

Auburn, last year's national champion, appears to be a carbon copy of the 57 crew . . . tremendous defense and score when you can. The Tigers ran their winning streak to 15—highest among the major colleges—with a 13-0 decision over Tennessee. Auburn should have no problem with Chattanooga this week.

Michigan State, ranked fourth behind Ohio State, Oklahoma and Auburn, dumped California, 32-12, and Notre Dame, No. 5, shut out Indiana, 18-0. But Texas Christian, No. 6 and the favorite in the Southwest Conference, was upset by Iowa, 17-0. Pitt, No. 8, whipped Holy Cross, 7-0, and Mississippi, No. 9, turned back Kentucky, 27-6. Northwestern surprised 10th ranked Washington State, 29-23.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

A bridge player should make it a habit to use the same words in bidding. He should always say, "One diamond" or "three spades" and not vary it. And he shouldn't let the tone of his voice inform his partner as to whether he is confident in his hand or bidding in desperation.

If you are going to play bridge it is important to abide by such rules.
